EIGHTH OF ALL TAXES ARE PAID BY CAR OWNERS

Motor car owners now pay one out of every eight tax dollars collected in the United States by federal, state and local governments.

Presenting facts and figures to support this assertion, a statement by the California State Automobile Association declares that "the amount of taxes paid by automobile owners provides a story which turns the scales heavily against proposals to increase the motoring tax burden, either through increase of special levies on motorists as a class or through diversion of gasoline tax money."

The total of motor vehicle owner taxes in the United States in 1933, the last year for which complete figures are available, was $1,137,872,000, the statement sets forth.

State gasoline taxes totalled $518,195,712; registration fees, $301,932,039; federal excise taxes, including federal gasoline tax, was $247,744,425; personal property and municipal taxes $370,000,000.

Average annual state registration fees and gasoline taxes paid per car increased from $8.68 in 1919 to $34.42 in 1933.

The combined rate of state and federal taxation on gasoline, ranging from 3 cents per gallon in some states to 8 cents in others, amounts to an average of 5.14 cents per gallon.

The average car during a life period of seven years, yields taxes amounting to 223 per cent of its average value.

In the period 1921-1930 motor vehicle taxes increased 435 per cent compared with an increase of 153 per cent in registration and 59 per cent in expenditures on state highways and local roads and streets.

"Back of the ever ready tendency to single out the motorist to pay more than his share of the common tax burden is the obsolete notion that the automobile still is a luxury," the Automobile Association statement continues. "One has only to look around him to realize that such a notion is not based on fact. The automobile is a necessity to modern life and must not be taxed back into the luxury class."

PLUMBAGO-ELDORADO SHAFT IS DRAINED

Word comes from A. B. Campbell, superintendent of the Plumbago-Eldorado mine at Alleghany that the unwatering progress is progressing rapidly, the shaft having been drained, and prepared for the skip, down to between the eighth and ninth levels. Air and water lines have been run down and it is expected that the unwatering process will have been completed within the next two weeks. New timbering has been placed in certain sections and actual mine operations are expected to start within the above period.

In the meanttime, a new Deister concentrating table has been installed along with two new motors in the mill, which at present is running ore tests. Ore is being developed in virgin territory between the third and fourth levels, where drifting and crosscutting is going on. Values are being tested on 50 ton sample mill runs and at the same time mill adjustments are being made in preparation for continuous operations in the immediate future.

W. D. O'Brien, mining engineer, who recently examined the property placed himself on record as being not only greatly pleased with the progress to date, but as also impressed with the showing of values to date. Campbell is holding back just what these values are until he has completed his sampling on considerable tonnage and knows just what to expect in his first mill runs.

SPENCEVILLE MINE

Sidney Woods, superintendent of the Spenceville mine has four men employed in reopening the property. Plans of the company are to install plant to handle a larger amount of different equipment and enlarge the ore.

MINERAL OUTPUT OF STATE GAINS

By WALTER W. BRADLEY
State Mineralogist

The total value of the mineral production of California for the year 1934, just closed, is conservatively estimated by the statistical section of the Division of Mines, Department of Natural Resources, under the direction of Walter W. Bradley, State Mineralogist, to have been $254,918,000. This is in part, detailed in the tabulation below, but as there are more than 50 mineral substances on California's commercial list, it is impracticable at this early date to obtain definite figures on other than the more important items. The blank report forms are being mailed to the operators in all mineral lines, and the detailed and complete report will be compiled and published later.

The estimated total of $254,918,000 is an increase of approximately $48,428,000 over the value of the 19933 production, which was valued at $206, 489, 058. The largest increases in value of outputs over the previous year were shown by petroleum, gold and cement; with lesser increases by silver, quicksilver, miscellaneous industrial minerals, and salines. The only important mineral substances which show decreased production and value are brick and hollow building tile, and copper.

The value of the petroleum output showed a marked increase, although the quantity of about 174,996,000 barrels was an increase of only 0.6% over that of 1933. The prices of all grades of crude oil did not vary during the year, though the average was much higher than that of 1933.

Receipts of bullion at the mint, and smelters showed an increased output of gold of some 77,000 fine ounces over 1933. The value of gold in 1934 was $35.00 a fine ounce, compared with an average weighted value of $25.56 for 1933 and $20.67 previous to 1933.

The structural group showed an increase owing to an increased output of cement, although the value per barrel was somewhat lower. This increase might be accounted for by the large amount of Public Works' construction in progress during the year. Both the industrial and saline groups trend was for increased values.

FOREST RECEIPTS SHOW 48 PER CENT INCREASE

The Forest Service reports a net increase of 48 per cent in receipts for permits and uses of the resources of the 18 national forests in California for the first half of the 1935 fiscal year as compared to a year ago. Forestry officials state that the increase is due mainly to resumption of legging on national forest timber sale areas where the annual yearly cut stipulations had been waived by the Forest Service because of economic conditions. Greater spending ability on the part of the public is indicated by a 26 per cent increase in payments for rentals of land in the face of a comparatively small increase in the number of permits, showing that permittees apparently have money to make payments more promptly.

RECONNOISANCE SURVEY FOR HIGHWAY IS MADE

A crew of state highway engineers is making a reconnoisance survey of highway routes through this city with a view to selecting the best one. This action is in accordance with the request made by the city council some weeks ago.

TAHOE-UKIAH HIGHWAY CLEARED TO U. S. 40

Highway snow plows from Downieville and Truckee have cleared the Tahoe-Ukiah highway between Junction House and its connection with U. S. 40 below Emigrant Gap. For sometime the road has been blocked from the Junction House east. Fred Garrison, in charge of this section for the State Highway Commission, expects to have the road open today.

Concessions Made In Plan To Transfer All Roads To State Dept.

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 31.—If the plan of the state administration to take over, under the State Department of Public Works, all county roads, should be approved by the legislature, it is proposed, according to Earl Lee Kelly, director, that the county surveyors in the smaller counties at least, shall enter the state service as resident engineers for the highway division.

It is argued that these men are generally more familiar with local traffic problems and needs than engineers would be from highway headquarters.

This program contemplates the transfer of county roads throughout the state to the care and maintainance of the State Public Works Department, thereby doing away with road taxes in the counties.

Kelly quoted figures to show that the county boards of supervisors in 1930 spent $72,000,000 on roads and $42,000,000 in 1934.

He declared that the state, with $30,000,000 raised by an increase in the gasoline tax of 1 cent, can take over all the work performed by the supervisors last year and still give back to the cities $6,000,000, accruing as their share if their gasoline tax allocation is increased from a quarter to half a cent.

Kelly stated that in 1937 the counties will be required to begin paying back relief moneys allotted them from the $20,000,000 relief bond issue, the first voted by the state. The gasoline tax moneys were pledged by the counties in the event they otherwise had failed to repay the funds drawn by them for relief.

He voices the opinion that some counties would become bankrupt insofar as road construction and maintenance are concerned within a comparatively few years.

Another amendment to the legislation Kelly will accede to is one which would require that the man employed on road projects by the state be residents of the county where the bulk of their labors are to be performed. This is to remove the objections based on the contention that county residents would not be employed on road work in their home counties if the state takes over the maintenance and construction of all roads.

Kelly called attention to the fact that the state has an investment of $4,000,000 in equipment, used 75 per cent of the time on highways handling 47 per cent of the traffic, while the counties have an investment of $8,000,000 in equipment which is used 20 per cent of the time on roads handling 11 per cent of the traffic.

FIREMEN'S BALL NETS $759 CASH

Fire Chief E. J. N. Ott, yesterday completed his report on the receipts and disbursements of the annual masquerade ball given New Year's eve for the benefit of Armory Hall. The total receipts were $917.15. Expenses amounted to $157.76, and net proceeds were $759.39. Donations of Nevada City merchants of goods and merchandise offered and awarded as prizes totaled $138.50, which make a grand total of gross receipts $1055.65.

Fire Chief Ott states that the firemen will now make another large payment on Armory Hall. Since that report was compiled the Native Daughters have made a donation of $5, the firm of Jones & Finnegan $5, and the Nevada City Bottling Works, $1.

OLIVER PROPERTY LEASED

Thomas Oliver, of Nevada City, has leased his mining property on Gold Flat to Mr. W. J. Huckins, former mining man of Black Hills, South Dakota.

A crew has been employed for about 10 days cleaning out the old tunnels and shaft. The shaft is 98 feet deep and one tunnel is in about 500 feet. It is understood the new company will sink to develop ore bodies. The mine lies in a fine mineral belt and has a good past production record.

Cities That Are To Be.

We are the little cities,
  Born in the early dawn—
French Corral and Sweetland,
  Birchvile and old San Juan;
We knew the swift advancement
  Of a day that came to shine,
With the building of homes in the forests
  And the wealth of a roaring mine.

We are the little cities,
  Reared in the golden day
Of pioneer toil and achievement
  Now far, so far away;
The hills smiled down upon us,
  And the groves of oak and pine
Rejoiced in the added beauty
  Of flowering tree and vine.

We are the little cities,
  Touched by the sunset light
As the day our hearts had cherished
  Faded away into night;
The roaring mines were silenced,
  And under each brooding hill,
The homes that love had builded
  Grew strangely dark and still.

We are the little cities
  That waited the long night through,
Dreaming with weary longing
  For the olden skies of blue;
And now as the first sure dawning
  Of a golden day we see—
We are the little cities,
  The cities that are to be!

UNEMPLOYMENT CAMP MEN, 125

State Ranger William F. Sharp, who is in charge of the unemployment camp at the southern limits of Nevada City, has 50 men working on the old Indian Flat road west of this city. A crew is also working on their private telephone line from Rices Crossing to Shady Creek, or Thompsons Corners. The men have set two miles of poles on the planned eight and a half mile line.

Men keep coming and going all the time but at present there are 125 at the camp. The largest number ever at camp was 135. Mr. Sharp will continue throughout the year with his program of fire proofing and repairing of roads. Men from this camp fought a number of forest fires the past season.

PUBLISHERS URGE EXPLOITATION OF STATE RESOURCES

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 29.—With the close of the 47th annual convention of the California Newspaper Publishers' association at Santa Cruz Sunday, Clarke F. Waite, newly elected president, filed the resolution before the members of the Assembly and Senate of the California Legislature which was unanimously voted by the association endorsing the perpetuation of present legislation enabling respective counties to use the forces of advertising through leading publications outside the State of California.

The resolution follows:

WHEREAS, The current session of the California Legislature will shortly consider legislation now being urged which will seek to abolish existing acts in the California statute books which empower counties in the state to raise revenues for the purpose of exploiting the state's resources in a manner that will redound to the benefit of said counties wealth, and

WHEREAS, because it is shown by factual record that the spending of such revenue by the majority of California counties through recognized advertising media, through the placing of exhibits in eastern fairs, through work to develop new industries and to create new market outlets for the products, both agricultural and manufactured, of such counties, has appreciably increased their wealth and aided the welfare of their people, and

WHEREAS, California has a tremendous problem of idle unemployed which can best be met by utilizing modern exploitation and advertising methods to the end that new jobs will be created, payrolls expanded and new wealth brought to the state, and

WHEREAS, our state is continually faced with keen competition from other states that seek both our needed tourist revenues and new industries which means employment for our people, therefore

BE IT RESOLVED, that the California Newspaper Publishers' Association, gathered at our annual convention this 19th day of January, 1935, goes emphatically on record as opposed to any legislation that would either bring an end to curtail the exploitation work of California counties and will further take steps to resist such legislation being enacted

AND, BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that we believe that since the continuance or discontinuance of such work is a matter that rests with the individual counties with the county boards of supervisors as public arbiters on such matters, there is no practical need for new legislation to deal with the question.

RECENT LAND PURCHASE FENCED

Street Superintendent H. H. Hallett with a crew has just completed clearing and fencing a tract of land around the two city reservoirs on Sugar Loaf. The city officials purchased seven acres of ground near the reservoirs recently making the tract about 12 acres in all.

MERCHANTS TO PLAY AUBURN HERE SATURDAY

The Nevada City Merchants will play the Auburn A and B cagers Saturday night in Armory Hall. The Merchants stand in third place in the Placer-Nevada basketball league, and will try to better their position in this game. The Lincoln squad is leading with Roseville in second place. The Merchants should be able to take the Auburn hoopsters, as the boys from Auburn have not been showing so well lately.

A number of post-season games have been lined up for the Merchants among which will be the Blue Ghosts, a negro squad who have been barn-storming the country with great success. The Ghosts are a colorful outfit, and very popular with the fans. They play a fast breaking, smooth game, and will undoubtedly make a hit here. They are scheduled to appear against the Merchants on the local court on February 9. The College of Pacific Frosh team is also on the list to appear, the date will be announced later.

TO PLANT FOUR MILLION TREES IN SHELTER BELT

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 31.—Initial work on the President's plan for a 1,000-mile shelter belt for trees stretching from North Dakota to the Panhandle of Texas will commence early this spring with the planting, by the U. S. Forest Service, of four million trees on 150 miles of the belt located in six different states. Basing his statements on explorations of the region, contact with local authorities and scientific data, F. A. Silcox, chief forester, says that the Forest Service is whole-heartedly back of planting shelter belts in the prairie-plains region and is more than ever convinced of the value of this project to agriculture and to the improvement of physical conditions.

Planting will be confined to a zone of agricultural land which under normal conditions should support productive farms and where there is an annual rainfall of from 18 to 20 inches on the western boundary to 25 inches on the eastern side of the belt, which foresters say is sufficient precipitation to support tree growth under proper handling. No attempt will be made, except experimentally, to plant trees on marginal lands, which, because of alkalinity of the soil or deficient rainfall present an agricultural hazard. The Shelter Belt will not replace marginal lands but will make good agricultura lands more valuable and contribute to the permanency and stability of agriculture.

WHY NOT A NAME?

For want of a better cognomen, the ten acres surrounding and adjacent to the municipal swimming pool is called the Swim Pool Park or the Municipal Park.

This park, during the next few years, is in line for development as a community and all year recreation resort. The course of Little Deer Creek is to be changed so as to leave the meadow at the foot of the park, a level free area for the development of athletic and sports fields. A road is to wind through the picturesque beauty these ten acres embrace. A commodious parking field above the pool has already been developed. The planting of shrubs and trees in certain areas will be done to enhance the natural charms of this lovely spot.

Stone terraced banks have been built above the pool and below the parking field. A long change room, admirably adapted to its site has been constructed. In course of time it is proposed, according to the plans of the landscape engineer, Mr. Frederick Evans, of Sacramento, to spend about $14,500 in improving the city's park.

Now we submit that this park deserves a better name than either of the two mentioned.

If it is in order the Nugget suggests that the city council offer to the citizens of this community a prize of $10 for the best name suggested for Nevada City's municipal park.

There is a wealth of local tradition and legend from which to choose an appropriate name. There are unique and beautiful features of the park itself which might suggest a good name. There are pioneers revered in the history of Nevada City, whom its citizens may wish to honor by naming after one of them its park. From these or other sources, surely a fitting name can be found for Nevada City's beautiful new park.

HEALD'S TEACHES THE PATHFINDER SYSTEM

In keeping with the recent upswing in business conditions, Heald College makes the most forward step toward improving accounting instruction that has been made by any school of business in Sacramento during the past 20 years.

Departing from the old fashioned methods of teaching bookkeeping, the Chas. R. Hadley Pathfinder Course trains the student on a genuine set of books and gives him transactions to enter upon them that are exactly similar to those occurring today.

The practice set used in the Pathfinder course is exactly the same as the actual Pathfinder Loose Leaf Accounting System as is installed by the majority of the leading business firms in California.

Nothing so discourages the student of bookkeeping, who is studying for the specific and immediate purpose of getting a position, to find that he is learning methods and procedures that modern business has long ago discarded.

Have You Heard ?

BY

Katie Lewis

BRIDGEPORT, Jan. 28.—The air is too cold for comfort no matter how brightly the sun shines. The gulches and ravines are great natural vases overflowing with garlands of yellow and purple shrubbery and long streamers of wild grape vines, flaming red. The skies are dazzling blue and clusters of white clouds, like lambs in a turquoise pasture, drift slowly over the peaks and out of sight.

French Corral creek tumbles down the ravine and forms a waterfall as lively and beautiful as any I have seen in the state.

A full grown CCC camp is established here now and it gives me a pleasurable sense of satisfaction to know that those neat white tents in regulated rows are housing and feeding thirty or more of our young American men.

Less than two years ago an army of youths, numbering nearly half a million, were roaming across the country in search of work and food. A nation-wide survey by the Children's Bureau revealed these boys, ranging in age from fourteen to twenty-one, came from practically every state in the Union and were heading generally toward the South and West.

The survey stated the youths, the majority of whom, came from good families and many of whome have attended both high school and college were being subjected to influences that were undermining their character.

The boys were not experienced hoboes and did not even know how to ride the rails properly. One railroad alone reported more than fifty young men and bys killed and more than one-hundred crippled in one winter.

Then there came into Office Franklin Delano Roosevelt, the President with an understanding heart—and these fine young men were formed into Civilian Conservation Corps.

Every day they eat well balanced meals, sleep in warm beds, wear warm clothing and best of all there is plenty of good, honest work to do to earn all this. And the boys have the satisfaction of knowing they are providing for themselves besides sending a little cash home to help the folks along.

Every time I see one of the big CCC trucks roaring down the road full of grinning youngsters, I want to hire a hall, wave the American flag . . . or something.

..... County Government .....

While the most pressing question confronting the State Legislature at Sacramento is that of providing means to increase state revenue without commiting political suicide by infuriating taxpaying constituents wth yet more burdensome taxes, another question containing political dynamite has already arisen and must soon be given full consideration. This is the question of incorporating all roads under state supervision, consequently eliminating county control of this sphere of activity and dealing what would perhaps be a death blow to county politics.

The idea of incorporating county roads into the state system is not new and its adoption is bitterly opposed by a number of people. Those who oppose the measure point out that the maintainance of county roads is a peculiarly local problem and that considered as such, the district supervisor being as he must be thoroughly familiar with individual conditions and needs, is better able to provide suitable roads to meet different conditions and needs much more economically than could be done under a bureaucratic system. The point is also made that the maintainance of roads is but part of a supervisors duties and that it would be necessary in any case to maintain similar officers.

There is no question but that our present form of county government has been a natural development to meet changing conditions and has for the most part served its purpose admirably. In the rapid changes that have taken place in the past few years and that are still taking place however, county government finds itself more and more, forced to defend its existence. While some form of minor civil division or district for the purpose of handling local affairs may for some time still be desirable, there can be no question but that the major duties now discharged by county officers better lend themselves to a more centralized form of control. This is particularly true of the maintainance of roads and the operation and maintainance of charitable institutions, hospitals, etc.

Today we have the spectacle of divided authority, spheres of duty overlapping each other, duplicated efforts and equipment and by and large, an inefficient and uneconomical method of handling affairs. Candidly, our present form of county government has become antiquated. During our development stage it was a political necessity and as such served its purpose. Today, thanks to an age of rapid communication, transportation and of specialization, the whole trend of public opinion is toward centralized control.

To hazard a guess, the passing of county roads into the state system and the incorporation of charitable institutions and hospitals under state supervision will probably take place very shortly. Local law enforcement and law courts may outlast local road and institution maintainance a short time.

Whether we like it or not, the inevitable drift is toward centralized and coordinated control in all things.

PENNSYLVANIA MINE

Sinking operations at the Pennsylvania mine in Browns Valley have progressed to the 430 foot level and latest reports are they have good prospects. Twelve men are employed in developing the property, with Harry Jacobs, formerly with the Keystone mine, as mine foreman Mr. Bent, general superintendent, has had a wide experience in mining, having been engaged in similar work in Corea and South America. New York capital is reopening the Pennsylvania mine.

Serve with any hot pudding sauce or with hard sauce.

Hot Butter Sauce for Puddings

Pinch salt.
2 cups water.
One-third cup sugar.
Butter, size of a walnut.

Bring the above to a boil. Thicken with flour blended with cold water until of sauce consistency and then add one tablespoon lemon juice and a little nutmeg.

STATE GOLD OUTPUT IN 1934 IS 701,000 OUNCES

The higher price for gold increased California's income from the gold mining industry by $8,816,871 over that of 1933. The total value of the 1934 gold production, calculated on an average price of $34.95 a fine ounce, according to the preliminary annual figures issued by the U. S. Bureau of Mines, amounted to $24,499,950. The 1933 gold production calculated on an average price of $25.56 a fine ounce, amounted to $15,683,079. The Bureau of Mines commented in its bulletin on the unusual activity throughout the state in re-opening old mines and enlarging mills to handle increased tonnages. The stimulation thus effected resulted in an increased production of 701,000 ounces of gold, as compared with 613,579 ounces in 1933.

JUST A NEIGHBORLY ACT

CAMPTONVILLE, Jan. 28.—Constable John M. Jaynes startled the community Saturday when he drove up the street in a truck with what had every appearance of being a corpse and headed for the cemetery. SALMON MINE IS NOW BEING UNWATERED

J. B. Truitt, who is reopening the Salmon mine near Tyler, is pumping out the old shaft with a crew of four. He will sample the ore as unwatering progresses.

As soon as the roads are in shape 35 or 40 tons of ore, already mined, will be hauled to the Queen Lil mill at Nevada City for a test run. If the property warrants it, a mill will be put up as soon as enough ore has been developed, or in the near future.

While Mr. Truitt was born in Colusa, in the Sacramento Valley, his father was a pioneer mining man of this section. The son is also familiar with mining.

KEYSTONE MINING COMPANY

It is reported the Keystone Mining Company, west of Grass Valley, which closed down several months ago, has liquidated all former debts and is to start work soon. The ore is similar to that of the Empress mine which lies to the south. Jack Jordan is resident superintendent. Mr. Rapp, director, of Santa Monica, is interested in the Douglas Aircraft Company.

MOUNTAIN VIEW MINE

The Mountain View mine, above Washington, is closed temporarily on account of four feet of snow. Mr. J. F. White, superintendent, is expected up from below soon and will at once make preparations for a 10 stamp mill. The company has the ore blocked out. Work started too late last season for the company to get their camp established for a winter run and it is expected active work will start in about a month, or as soon as the snow is off the ground. There is a stamp mill on the property.

IOWA HILL GRAVEL MINE

A 300 ton gravel plant is being built at the Iowa Hill mining property above Auburn. Joshua Hendy Company, of San Francisco, is installing the machinery. In the last two years the Iowa Hill company has done extensive development and now have the property in shape for the gravel plant.

REDDING MINES ACTIVE

Al Kelliher returned Sunday from Redding where he has been on a construction job. He noted a lot of mining activity. The gold buyers are doing a thriving business, one is reported to have bought $40,000 worth of gold last year. Four or five large business houses are going up in Redding. There is a lot of snow at present bringing high water with it.

PENNSYLVANIA MINE

Sinking operations have progressed to the 750 foot level in the Pennsylvania mine in Brown's Valley. High grade ore was run into recently in the lower workings of the property. At present the sinking is being done by contract with ten men employed.

LEGISLATIVE LETTER
by Graham Berry

(By WNU Service)

The Governor couldn't have picked a more strategic time to submit his budget than just a few days before the legislative adjournment of last Saturday. Legislators have just about had enough time to absorb his pay-as-we-go tax increase proposals and not enough time to more than threaten to slash them to pieces.

Legislative harmony, which pervaded most of the session, vanished like gunpowder touched with a match as soon as the Governor's document was read. Democratic sharpshooters who have waited long for a mark, have at last found their target. The fight next session promises to be hot. Already the Bourbons are arraying themselves against the administration, claiming several progressive Republicans under their banner.

Merriam will not have much trouble in the Senate, his strength there being fairly solid. The Assembly, however, is a different story. It will take only 27 votes here to block him, and the Democrats already claim over 40 for their side, including the progressive G.O.P's.

The executive budget, which proposes expenditures totaling $394,000,000 for the two years beginning July 1, is opposed not so much because it calls for $154,000,000 in increased taxes, but because of the way in which these taxes are proposed to be raised.

Although his stalwarts are sticking by him, there is a general feeling in legislative circles that Merriam has placed too much of the burden on the poor. The latter part of last week both houses were deluged with tax bills, many of them calling for revenue along the lines proposed by the Governor, but most of them aimed at making the wealthy pay more.

Democrats Oppose

The chief bone of contention is—as always—the sales tax. A storm of verbal protest answered the Governor's plan of increasing it to three per cent. The Bourbons will fight to have food purchases up to $25 and clothes exempted from any sales levy and to keep the tax at its present level or lower.

Besides the sales tax, Democrats have come out flatly against the proposed real estate tax which would raise $5,000,000 a year. They oppose both the proposed amusement and the boost on the motor transportation levies. They are also against the administrative suggestion of raising $25,000,000 by eliminating local personal property tax on automobiles and applying a state weight and value tax on motor vehicles. They oppose the executive plan to raise $23,000,000 for unemployment relief by adding a cent to the existing gasoline tax and to gain $16,000,000 by taxing public utility users.

They are also against the $8,000,000 tobacco tax, the boost in beer taxes and the hard liquor stamp tax. It might almost be said that the Bourbons don't like Merriam's mathematics at all.

On the other hand, Democrats favor the Governor's unemployment relief program, in which he lived up to platform promises, and for which he would raise $47,300,000 by taxation during the next biennium. The $24,000,000 relief money which the state must spend before the budget under study becomes effective, was raised through the sale of bonds. Merriam would eliminate bond interest on his proposed $47,300,000 relief expenditure by collecting the money directly by taxation. He probably has his eye on the state's present "bondage" of $209,351,000, counting the latest bond authorizations.

Aside from criticising practically every tax-raising measure of Merriam's, Democrats have proposed a budget which includes $179,000,000 in additional revenue. They will seek a 100 per cent increase in the Governor's income tax measure, will urge levies on banks and business corporations totaling $11,000,000, and $6,000,000 from insurance companies. They will battle for an increase in the severance tax. Merriam's proposal being $12,000,000 from this source while the Bourbons would boost this form of revenue to $46,000,000.

Said Will R. Sharkey, senate finance committee chairman, "Not in recent years have we received a message such as that given by Governor Merriam. It was a message inspired by the courage of his convictions."

Senator Culbert L. Olson, chairman Democratic State Central Committee, commented, "The Governor's taxation program, as was fully expected, is one framed to satisfy all big interests."

State Controller Ray L. Riley added, "In general the message has a constructive tone and reiterates the pledges of the Republican platform. Apparently it contemplates a rather substantial shifting of new tax burdens to a very broad base."

Defeated Candidate for Governor Upton Sinclair ridiculed the program, urging "our EPIC friends" to fight sales tax increases and demand total repeal of the tax on everything but luxuries.

Would Oust Riley

The Riley-Stewart war for control of the State Board of Equalization added its din to the general furor which marked the closing days of the short session. This battle, though armisticed several weeks ago, flared out again. Yet neither Ray L. Riley, board chairman who holds more major state offices than any other man, nor Fred E. Stewart, former power behind the board throne, apparently had anything to do with it.

Charles Lyon, Republican floor leader in the Assembly, submitted a constitutional amendment which would oust the newly-elected chairman, Riley. The bill, Lyon said, was suggested to him by several "senators." He added that he hadn't consulted Stewart before drawing his proposal.

The bill would create a fifth equalization district in California and would eliminate Riley as ex-officio member of the board, a position he automatically holds as state controller. The district would be formed in the extreme southern part of California, relieving Orfa Jean Shontz of responsibility for the entire southland.

Lyon added that Riley should be relieved of some of his complex duties and that there was objection to an ex-officio board member holding the chairmanship.

This measure will probably cause another legislative battle which will reverberate throughout the entire state government. It has been rumored that newspapers will send war correspondents instead of political writers to Sacramento during the long session beginning in March.

What Price Education?

Although no one, apparently, has asked this very sensible question at the Capitol so far, it has been answered in many and varied ways. The state universities have answered it one way, the public another, the Governor yet another, while the legislators have echoed all three in various proposed bills and amendments.

In the first place the University of California has been budgeted $12,768,583, although Dr. Robert Gordon Sproul, university president, has declared that increased enrollment and efficient administration call for $1,335,934 more. The school, asserts Dr. Sproul, is justified in seeking increase because it took an emergency budget cut at the last legislative session. Since the Governor's budget has denied the increase, the university will fight for its proposals through the Legislature.

Opposition to any such increases has already developed at Sacramento Many legislators feel that while the university must be adequately financed, every cent of public money to be granted over the budget figures must follow a minute scrutiny of needs. Too many taxes will have to be enacted to meet minimum expense requirements, let alone increases.

Another educational rumpus has been stirred by the four-year regional college idea. There are several educators in Sacramento lobbying to have the state's seven teachers' colleges made into regular state colleges. One junior college is putting up a strong fight to be converted into a four-year institution.

This battle is being waged on two fronts. First, each of the seven normal or teachers' schools is asking for appropriations in excess of budget allotments. Total increase for the seven schools amounts to $360,000.

Their chief objective, however, is to have the schools converted into state colleges, a move opposed by the University of California. They are asking that this move be legalized by the Legislature, saying that no additional funds will be needed if this is done. The junior college that asks to be made into a four-year college claims they can carry on a university program with no increased costs.

Last Minute Rush

A moratorium on foreclosures, legalized up to February 1, has been extended to September 1, 1935, in an emergency measure rushed through the Legislature under the recess deadline. Several moratorium measures had been proposed, and after a bitter deadlock, one composed of several such measures was rushed through.

It is a moratorium on mortgages and trust deed foreclosures and provides that the debtor must pay taxes and insurance, but may go before a court in an equity proceeding to see whether he is able to pay his creditor on the interest and principal of the debt. Under the provisions, a debtor may default on taxes and insurance before he appears before the court, but not after

This moratorium may be extended after the reconvening of the Legislature.

Governor Merriam is asking legislative authority to investigate the possibilities of a transactions tax, saying that it looks as if one will be imposed in the future. This is another name for the old syncrotax, which, according to Controller Ray L. Riley, may net the state $125,000,000 a year.

Many politicians believe this move on the part of the Governor is his feeling around for a substitute tax in case his own program meets strong opposition next March. This one levy would eliminate all other forms of taxation and would greatly simplify revenue collections, many believe, since California now has 10,000 tax collecting agencies, all of which must be supported and many of which overlap. The syncrotax investigating committee would be ready to submit its findings to the Legislature by 1937.

The end of the short session was set for three o'clock last Saturday. There were so many bills yet to push through at that time that the clocks in the two houses were stopped and business continued on far, far into the night.

A total of 3448 bills were submitted this session. This is 29 less than in 1933. Most of those turned in at the present session will never see the light of day. They will be killed in committee or rejected when they come before the houses.

During this 30-day recess between sessions legislators will discuss the various measures with their constituents to see what "the home folks" think of them. They will return to Sacramento in March with a better idea of what is needed. If they find new measures needing introduction, each legislator may submit two during the long session, but no more.

LUMBER TALKS

Winter rains dripped with persistence
Through a hole up in the roof;
Stains upon the kitchen ceiling
Show it was not waterproof.
Winds have torn a dozen pickets
From the fence about my lawn,
Broken shutters bang and clatter
Through the night till break of dawn.

—A. M. C.

Winter storms test the strength and durability of our homes and places of business, and expose their faults to critical eyes.

The lumberman can suggest proper materials and methods for your annual repair jobs, and aid in the seasonal work of reconstruction and restoration.

In the sunny intervals between storms we may prepare for the coming spring by catching up on the odd jobs about the place we call home.

The services of the Nevada County Lumber Co., are at your command. Don't delay the march of Progress. The Time, the Place and the Opportunity are ours to recognize and accept.

JOSEF HOFMANN COMING TO SACT.

Music lovers of Sacramento and all of Northern California will have a chance to hear one of the world's greatest living pianists when Josef Hofmann will appear at the Memorial Auditorium on Wednesday, February 6th in a wonderful program.

Josef Hofmann has been a favorite of the American public since the age of 10. He is a living proof of the fact too often denied, that the public wants the best. This great pianist believes that nothing is too good to offer the public, that nothing in fact is quite good enough. On his rule he has based his life. His concerts represent the peak of the art of music interpeted on the piano by a great master and the public invariable flocks to hear them thus proving that his high philosophy is sound. Piano students the world over flock to Hofmann concerts, not only to delight in the greatness of this masters playing but to marvel at the dexterity of his famous "Left Hand," which moves with such amazing surety and power.

The prices for this engagement is 55c, 83c, $1.10, and $1.65. A special price of 55c is made to all school college, and music students, reserved in any part of the house. The sale of seats is now on at Ye Music Shoppe, and particular attention is paid to out of town orders.

GOLD EXPLORATION CO.

The Gold Exploration Company, subsidiary of the Tintic Standard Mining Company of Utah, has just completed a plant that will handle up to 400 tons of gravel per day; a 60 foot headframe, ore bins, grizzlies, two structures from bins to inclines. This was formerly the old Blue Point hydraulic property and the new company is working by the drift and caving system, there being very little cemented gravel in the channel.

The company has now started drifts and adits on the bedrock in order to begin stoping ore as soon as the mill is in operation.

Milton Paine is superintendent and Michael Carmichael is assistant superintendent.

NEVADA THEATRE HAS FINE WEEK-END PROGRAM

Colonel Tim McCoy rides again!

This celebrated screen star, who burst upon the American public originally in a series of red-blooded, hard-riding out door pictures, returns to the fascinating western type of entertainment with "The Prescott Kid," which comes to the Nevada Theatre Friday night.

Reared on the western plains, McCoy is probably better fitted for this type of screen entertainment than any star in Hollywood. A perusal of his past accomplishments and history offers ample proof of this statement.

He served in the United States Cavalry in Wyoming, where he helped to supervise Indian reservations.

He owns and operates a 15,000 acre ranch near Thermopolis, Wyoming, and spends six months of every year in the saddle supervising and operating personally a large cattle business.

In brief, Colonel McCoy is the real west personified, and his latest picture, "The Prescott Kid," is said to be one of the finest outdoor action pictures he has produced. Beautiful Sheila Mannors plays opposite him in this production.

Saturday's bill at the Nevada Theatre will be "Side Streets" starring Aline MacMahon and an all-star cast. "Side Streets" is the human, touching drama of a loyal woman married to a man who could never be faithful to one woman.

The dramatic story of revenge that turns into genuine love is the underlying theme of the picture, "Behold My Wife," starring Sylvia Sidney with Gene Raymond and coming Sunday to the Nevada Theatre.

The story is concerned with Gene Raymond's attempt to revenge himself on his ultra-aristocratic family. Driven to New Mexico, when his family's meddling forces his sweetheart to suicide, he is wounded and nursed back to health by Sylvia Sidney.

She falls in love with her patient and he prevails upon her to marry him and accompany him back home, visualizing his family's horror when they meet her.

His plans go awry, however, when she appears at a reception given in her honor, more beautiful and fascinating than any of the well-bred women who surround her. It is then that he betrays his real purpose to her and tells her that he does not love her. Broken hearted and desperate, she runs away with another man. A smashing and surprising climax, however, reunites the lovers.

LEASERS AID DEVELOPMENT WORK

Leasers, who are local men, are taking over a number if mining properties near Nevada City in recent weeks and making fine progress in development work. It will only be a short time until they will earn good wages in their ore crushings.

In the Willow Valley district, east of Nevada City, six men have taken over the LeCompton, United, and Perserverance claims owned by E. J. N. Ott, of Nevada City. The men are drifting on ledge matter and developing ore bodies that will soon make good yields, the ore will be treated in the mill on the property.

Ten men are leasing at the Great Northern, the former Hoge mine, rich ore is being mined on the 300 foot level and treated at the mill at the mine.

Leasers on the Buffington property at the western limits of Nevada City, where the Queen Lil mill is located, are doing development work. As enough ore is taken out it is put through the Queen Lil mill.
